1.Markus van den Berg: Happy to be partnering with Christies' Hasty T As was inevitable, Hong Kong Disneyland has come up with a new quick-fire way of having a bite to eat in the park. A see-and-be-seen fast-food truck is now open outside Disneyland City, and as a side effect of the high-end food available in the park, diners get a free little Disney-themed snack of the kind that will put them in the Christmas spirit. The fast-food truck is just a meeting point for guests to order, so it's probably best to grab a place as soon as you arrive. As for what to choose, there's a sandwich that includes a "World-Famous Cheese Fondue", plus chicken and beef burgers. My personal favourite, though, is the Philly Cheesesteak. You can get a cheese fondue in French patisseries, but the Hong Kong Disneyland version doesn't have the same sensation of having the cheese fall out of your food as you try to eat it, which is what makes it so delicious. If you want to get a fast-food version of this delicious treat, it's open at 10.30am to 3pm daily, and at 5pm on Sundays and Wednesdays.  Just in time for Christmas, three good restaurants have opened in Disneyland. First up, in the Adventureland section of the park, is the "Cozy Corner". This new casual spot offers "California/Caribbean fusion" dishes, along with pizzas and sandwiches, as well as a special "Happy Birthday to You" cake. The Caribbean dishes are made with local ingredients, such as corn, yams, okra and beans, so they don't seem as odd as some of the more exotic items available in Disneyland.  Just up from the Disney-themed bakery is the "Authentic Mediterranean Cuisine" restaurant. This "Mediterranean" option is aimed at adults, and includes mains such as lamb shank and grilled salmon, along with options such as pasta and risotto. My friend and I tried the lasagne, which was delicious. The portion was generous, and the flavour was good.  And rounding out the trio, is the "G
