Cyrus Category: Email Client Cyrus is an open-source PHP-based email client and IM client, similar to PocoMail and K-Meleon. It is written in PHP and is free and open-source software licensed under GNU General Public License version 3. Community The developer of the client, Cyrus Lekunutu, is a student in the Czech Republic. Features Cyrus is a web-based instant messaging client that supports multiple platforms, including Windows, Linux and macOS. Cyrus supports multiple protocols, including ICQ, MSN, Yahoo, AIM, GTalk, Jabber, MySpace and others. The client uses a modular architecture, which lets users easily add modules, like file viewer, jukebox, etc. As a chat client, it also supports IRC, Google Talk, Google Voice, IRC, Jabber and XMPP (Jabber). The user interface has a lot of customization options, allowing users to choose whether to use the default one or a custom skin. Cyrus is mostly used for communication with other computer users, but it also supports chat with social network users, such as Facebook, Twitter and Google+. Offline messages are stored locally in the database, so they can be accessed and used later. This lets users keep on reading and writing to the chat even if the connection is dropped. The files stored locally are not shared with other users. The client supports synchronization through various means. This allows users to update their local database with the online database. Most of the needed protocols are already supported, but the developer plans to add support for other protocols when they are updated. Cyrus supports more than 130 online services, and the list is updated on a daily basis. Cyrus is written in PHP and uses GTK+. Videos of the client can be viewed on the Cyrus website. Project Status Cyrus has been in beta for years, and the latest version is still in beta. BugTracker 1d6a3396d6
